energy that meet with the teacher's disapproval, and the talented youngster is bored by his dry lessons. If his parents are wealthy or well-to-do, he may be taken out of school and educated by tutors or sent to some special institution. But if he is poor, as about 98 percent of all youngsters are, this unusual one generally ends up in a reform school.

Mrs. Reed has certified this fact by studying reform schools. She says that about 60 percent of the inmates are mental defectives and about 40 percent are gifted individuals—above the average in mental endowment and generally having some special talent, such as music, drawing, expression, or invention. This talented youth often is afflicted with some nervous or mental trouble. But he is none the less a valuable individual who could be made useful to society if properly handled. Our school system throws the idiots and the geniuses into the same discard.

Special Classes Provided

Mrs. Reed believes that this problem will eventually be solved by providing special classes for the exceptional children. Some minor attempts along this line have been made in this country, and it is done successfully in France and Germany. In those countries a youth showing artistic gifts, for instance, is immediately placed in a special class where he has a chance to develop them.

In this country, the problem of the exceptional youth is for the future. We must do the broom and shovel work before we go in for decorations. The immediate need is to train the average child to do his work in the world then to help him find that work. We must eliminate the immense waste of human power which is caused by creating misfits.

This work the local bureau of the junior section proposes to do. Nine sections have been established already in Washington, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Providence, and Cleveland, and a state bureau in Indiana. In each of these a man, usually an associate superintendent of schools, is placed in charge. He has several assistants, one of whom is usually a business man. This bureau takes in hand each boy or girl leaving school, studies his record, his needs, and his abilities, and helps him to find a job. If the youngster needs more schooling, an effort is made to persuade him or enable him to stay in school. And interest in him does not end when he has been placed in a job. Follow up work is a regular part of the bureau's duties, so that the individual is not abandoned until he has really found work for which he is fitted.

This work will not only help boys and girls to find jobs, and employers to find labor, but it will help the educators to find out what is the matter with education.

Calls In New Corps

Mrs. Reed has personally aided in the organization of each of these bureaus. She is still spending her days working in the Washington local bureau. At 4:30, when the bureau closes, she calls in a new corps of stenographers and begins her work as head of the national organization. All of this she does for a salary which is a fraction of standing offers she has received from business concerns. She says that she has earned good money in the past, that her needs are few, and that she is willing to make the financial sacrifice for the sake of being at the head of a national undertaking. She is a middle aged woman with gray hair, a clear eye, and a long resolute jaw. She is agreeably free of the sentimentality which grips up the efforts of so many women uplifters. She has worked as a teacher and efficiency expert in many different parts of the United States. When a number of minimum wage laws were passed in western states, Mrs. Reed acted as a consulting expert in helping manufacturers to adjust their businesses to increased salary scales. Her method was to eliminate all employees who could not be made efficient enough to earn the higher wage. These inefficient workers were located in easier jobs.

Mrs. Reed's work is being watched with special interest here, because it looks as though she might help to solve the employment problem. The prejudices which have arisen against it is a generally acknowledged fact that the employment service did most useful work during the war, both for labor and for employers. It demonstrated that a national agency of that kind can perform an important function. It is also well known that of late the employment service has gotten in bad with the employers, who have charged in substance that it is a tool of the unions and that parlor bolsheviks have found access to its staff.

Confidence Weakened

Whether these charges are true or not, they have tended to weaken the confidence of employers in the employment service, and it is vital to the success of such an organization that it should have the confidence of both capital and labor.

As a result of the opposition it stirred up, the employment service almost went out of existence. It was saved from oblivion by an appropriation of $400,000 which was much less than it needed. Part of this money is being used in organizing the junior section, and it seems probable that this particular effort will meet with the approval of employers as well as of labor.

Mrs. Reed has no heavy baggage of theory. She does not aim to change the social order. She believes that to be effective her work must take into account the employer's point of view as much as that of the laborer. She believes that a part of our labor supply is being wasted at the source, through clumsy handling of school children; that this waste falls upon employer, worker and the public alike; and that it can be eliminated.

The junior section has many applications for local bureaus, but it cannot organize any more of them with the funds on hand, unless the city is willing to pay all expenses. The continuance of the work is dependent upon special appropriation from congress next year.

VOIE TOMORROW.

Tomorrow voters of Wisconsin will be given the opportunity to carry out the pledges made to the men and women who made possible an early victory over the Germans and Austrians.

They will be called upon to answer
"yes" or "no" to the question of providing a bonus for discharged soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses.
That they will make good on the promises so patriotically and enthusiastically made back in 1915 is reasonably sure. In fact, the people of the state of Wisconsin cannot logically defeat the bonus bill. They patriotically announced at frequent intervals that they stood ready to lend any atom of strength both financially and morally in support of the men and women who were fighting the battles of democracy.

If we look back to those dark and uncertain days of a year ago we can remember that the frame of mind of the whole nation was to make any sacrifice to bring about a permanent victory. At that time there was no quibbling over the dollars that would have to be spent. In fact, victory was not reckoned in dollars and cents.
Our consumed desire was to win the war and bring our men and women back to their jobs.

The prayers of mothers and fathers offered daily at that time have been answered, although all our fighting forces did not return, the larger portion did. They are the ones to be shown consideration now.

But very few of our soldiers were financially able to take up again the broken trend of business without embarassment. Thousands were financially unable at the time of their discharge from the army to buy more than a suit of clothes and a pair of shoes. Thousands of these young men were prosperous before called by Uncle Sam to the colors. They either had good jobs or perhaps had started promising businesses. When they dropped these for the rifle and hand grenade they did so with the almost certain knowledge that when they attempted to take them up again they would be severely handicapped. This has been proven in thousands of instances. There have been provided for most of the returned soldiers and perhaps financial aid has been given to those who left their business who found upon their return that most of that business had been lost.

Out of the thousands who did return to this state, many of them have suffered hardship sure because of their financial lack.

Under the provision of the proposed bonus bill, each soldier, sailor, marine and nurse honorably discharged from service will receive $10 for each month's service, the minimum being $50. The bill provides that the maximum tax levied on property is 3 mills on the dollar. This certainly is a small amount to be asked of our prosperous citizens in return for the sacrifices made by our fighters and nurses.

The real patriot tomorrow will not hesitate in voting for the bonus. He cannot refuse to make this gift if he remembers his feelings of one year ago today.

It will be necessary for every man who believes that our soldiers should be rewarded for their valiant service to go to the polls. There seems to be lack of enthusiasm throughout the state and every man who favors the bonus but does not cast his ballot will aid in the defeat of the proposition.

ANOTHER FEATURE.

Beginning with this issue the Gazette is adding to its list of home features, a new service. It has provided a service particularly prepared for boys and girls of school age. It will bring about co-operation between the school and the newspaper, thereby broadening the scope of the children's reading and creating an interest in current events which later will be of great value to them. This service is varied to such an extent that it will not become tiresome. It will extend through the school year.
Twelve series of articles are to be published; three of these will be exclusively for boys, three especially for girls, and the other six especially for both. They will be so interesting that all the boys and girls will want to read them at home; still better, they will be used as supplementary material in the school room, thereby aiding the teachers in planning outside work that will be of real value and at the same time retaining the interest of the children. Most teachers will tell you that it is difficult to keep up the interest of the children in outside assignments. This is due to a great extent to the fact that the children are many times at a loss to know where to get the material pertaining to the subject desired.

Inquiry among school officials indicates that the Gazette feature is going to be popular with both student and teacher. These features will be placed in a section of the Gazette expressly set aside for them. In addition to the daily articles it will be the aim of the Gazette to furnish as much news of the schools as it is possible to obtain.

also calls for the equivalent in francs,
1,247.55, and on the check is stamped
the sum of cashing for that month, $4.15. In June I presented this check for payment at the post of finance offices, 104 Broad street, New York, and was offered $190 for it, due to the fluctuation in the value of the franc.
I then took the matter up with Washington. Here is the answer I received:

"The secretary of the treasury, to whom the question of payment of these checks was referred, decided there was no authority under existing law authorizing disbursing officers to cash these checks at a rate of exchange different from that authorized by the treasury department for the month in which such checks are presented for redemption."

"In other words the government gives me a check for $227.99, charges
this amount as paid out on its records, and when I present the check four months after for payment, decides to give me an amount equivalent to $37.99 less than its face value. Can you beat it?"

We would say offhand that it would be hard to beat it, unless by some other evidence of stupidity in red tape administration of government departments. Why all the rigmarole in such matters? Whenever it seems desirable to do something promptly and fairly, it almost always appears that there are laws and rules to prevent it.
The government expressed this soldier's pay in terms of francs as well as dollars, and now that the franc has become cheaper, the soldier must take the loss. Who gets the $37.99?

Q. What is the negro population of the United States and is it increasing? H. W. S.

A. The negro population, according to the census of 1910, was 9,825,- 294. In 1870 the negro population was 4,480,000, so it becomes obvious that it had doubled in a period of 40 years.

A. Vinegar bees are a form of yeast variously used to produce alcoholic fermentation. These and other varieties of similar "bees" originated among the mountaineers of Kentucky and Tennessee. They were originally made by exposing a mixture of

POTOMAC PARK

When Jefferson was president, he used to go right out behind the White House and take a swim almost every evening. The Potomac was then where Potomac park is now. Great flocks of wild fowl rested on the river within sight of the executive mansion, and still greater flocks of mosquitoes made the occupants of the White House wish that Washington had chosen a hill-top for his house instead of a swamp. The croaking of frogs in those days used to disturb the cabinet meetings and it was not uncommon to kill a water moccasin on the White House grounds.

Now the river has been pushed back at least half a mile from the White House, and what was once a swamp has been filled in, parked, and equipped as a play ground. Where Jefferson swam, hundreds of Washingtonians now play golf and tennis, and the Lincoln memorial, one of the capital's few architectural successes, stands
where there was once deep water.

HONORS.

Wear them, gentlemen! Wear the laurel and the bay! Not as signs of pomp and pride, or as jewels for display. Lend no boastful tongue to them—he who does the best he can, though men fail to honor him, passes by no less a man.

You who know the smile of fame and are favored by the throngs, take what men are pleased to give; honors fall where they belong, at their tarnish and they fade and the glory in them dies. When men fault them vulgarly before their fellow-workers' eyes.

Honors do not change the man—they're but raiment to be worn; kings, with all their pomp and pride, may still be creatures fit to scorn.

Were you gentler? Were you kinder? Now has honor come your way? You've not been changed one bit—you should still be kind today.

Wear them simply, gentlemen! Prize your medals if you will. Take what men are pleased to give, but let me mock and humble still. Lend no boastful tongue to fame; this was true since time began—He who has no crown to wear, still may be a noble man.

PEORIA PASTOR GIVES PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS ON LIFE

The last union services of the Sunday morning, September 1, was held in the Baptist church yesterday. A large audience improved the opportunity to hear Rev. J. C. Hazen of Peoria, Ill., a former pastor of the church, who was the speaker.

He did not preach a formal sermon, but rather gave a practical talk on some of the simple things which make life worth living. He prefaced his remarks by noting the many varied races with their distinct characteristics which came to this melting pot of America and were blended into one thing to be proud of, "a typical American."

So he felt that in every life there was a certain blend of simple things which helped to make it what it should be. Religion and education he considered as fundamentals of a nation or an individual.

Among those things which he thought important, good health was first and foremost. There should be a fine spirit of happiness, and one should look on the world with optimism. A man may be both healthy and happy, he showed, and yet not accomplish anything. He must get out and put his back under the load and push, to make his living worth while, was one thought suggested.

And these are the things which help to make life count for something worth while, is the spirit animating it," was another point made. "A man may have health, money, happiness and efficiency, but without the feeling of mutual helpfulness for others, and love of God, his life goes down into nothingness," he said.

Special music was given during the service. Miss Nellie Powers singing "The Lord is My Light" and Mr. Thomas, Rochester, N. Y., singing as a solo, "He Wipes the Tear from Every Eye."

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

In the Home Study Corner.

By the Faculty of the Francis W. Parker School, Chicago. How often has an evening of study been spoiled by the lack of a pen, eraser or sheet of paper? It is so easy to fit up a home study corner that it is hard to see why so few boys and girls have one.

It is best to have a special place to study because then it becomes a habit to study when there is a comfortable spot in a warm, well-lighted room, even though other people may be talking nearby, is better than a more quiet uncomfortable place in a cold, dark, damp and lonesome room.

A flat-top table, not too high, and a comfortable chair are the first things needed. Duty does not demand a hard, straight backed chair any more than it demands a lounge. A sturdy, medium strong light should shine over the left shoulder. Avoid all red or orange shades; a soft yellow or green is the best color for the eyes.

There should either be a bookshelf close at hand or a pair of home-made book ends on the table. A dictionary is really needed. If there is any other reference work, or atlas, in the house, it should be there, too; but it won't do any good unless it is used.

No study table is complete without a full supply of the little things that make the work so much easier and more efficient. Of course, this includes pencils, pen and ink, ruler, eraser, scratch paper, composition paper, and a waste basket. But this is not all; it is a happy surprise to find how handy a few other things are. A little box of wire paper clips, a big manila envelope, or portfolio for keeping papers and clippings, a pair of scissors, a pot of paste, and a scrapbook will help wonderfully. It surely pays to lay in a good supply of these things.

Start the scrapbook by pasting this article on the front page and then each week paste in the next one in the series. At the end of the year, they will form a home-made book on "How to Study Skillfully."

(Next Monday look in this series for an interesting article, "How to Read a Newspaper.")

The sparrows sometimes build in low bushes and clumps of weeds—don't pass them in your search—but the meadowlark and bobolink always nest on the ground. The bobolink's nest is a cup-shaped, made of grass with maybe a leaf or two and lined with fine grass. Often it is in a clover field. The meadowlark, a larger bird, has a larger nest formed entirely of grass. Look under clumps of up-turned earth or tufts of thick grass.

The little song sparrow seems to use for her nest whatever comes handy. At times she builds a bulky, cup-shaped thing of coarse grass, weeds and bark, but sooty lined with hair. Then again, it may be flimsy, shallow and made only of grass.

It is an exciting moment when you discover a tree toiler's nest built on the ground. I once found one in a thicket of wild roses. The bird was sitting on the edge of a wood, when she should have been in a tree ten feet above ground. There seems to be adventures among the birds as well as among people.

(Articles in this series by Miss Beard will appear each Monday. Next week: "Empty Birds' Nests in Trees.")

SCHWEGLER VICTOR IN RIFLE CLUB'S FIRST TOURNAMENT

With six members participating and a number of spectators on hand, the first official tourney of the Janesville Rifle Club held at the new pit near Black Bridge yesterday, proved to be a success. Dr. E. O. Schwegler was the only man to qualify under the rules of the National Rifle-association, making 167 hits out of a possible 200 in the third range, the only one used yesterday. Stanley B. Woodruff was second with 142, Dr. R. J. Frank, 141, Dr. R. K. Powell, 126, Frank Ryder, 125 and Jesse Dixon, 82.

The scores given above are the totals of the shooting from four different positions—standing, kneeling, squatting, and prone—in two events—rapid and slow fire.

The scores in the various events, 25 shots in each, follow:

Rapid Fire.
Kneeling—Woodruff 21, Schwegler 20, Powell 18, Ryder 17, Dixon 6.
Prone—Hart 17, Powell 16, Schwegler 14, Woodruff 14, Dixon 11, Ryder 10.

Squatting—Schwegler 21, Woodruff 15, Hart 14, Powell 6, Ryder 4, Dixon 2.

Standing—Woodruff 23, Schwegler 20, Ryder 17, Hart 15, Dixon 11, Powell 6.

Slow Fire.
Kneeling—Hart 24, Schwegler 23, Powell 20, Ryder 19, Woodruff 13, Dixon 9.

Prone—Powell 22, Ryder 21, Woodruff 19, Schwegler 17, Dixon 15, Hart 14.

Squatting—Hart 23, Powell 22, Schwegler 21, Woodruff 21, Ryder 13, Dixon 12.

Standing—Schwegler 21, Hart 21, Powell 19, Woodruff 17, Ryder 17, Dixon 15.

BRICK BAT BANDIT TAKEN TO WAUPUN

Raymond Lawrence, self confessed brick bat bandit, who was sentenced to serve 18 years in Waupun, was taken to the state institution by Deputy Sheriff Yonius Waterman, Saturday.

Shirley Fred Beley said today that Lawrence told Deputy Sheriff Waterman while en route to Waupun that undoubtedly he would have been sentenced for life if the judge knew all the stunts he pulled.

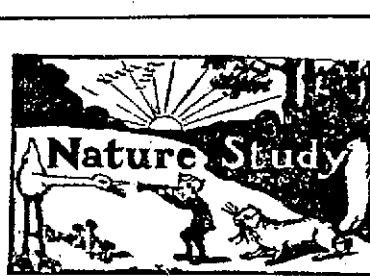

WRECKED CAR ORDERED HELD

Sheriff Fred Beley on his way to Madison via automobile yesterday afternoon, encountered a wrecked car just south of Evansville. He investigated and found that the car had been wrecked Saturday night and was carrying a license number issued to W. S. Hatten, Edgemoor.

The car, according to Sheriff Beley, left the road, crashed into a high rock and then hit a telephone pole. Sheriff Beley ordered the car held until he had interviewed the persons who were in the machine.

Hunting Bird Nests in the Fields.

By Adella Belle Beard.

September is the time to begin our hunt for bird's nests. They are empty now, yet in good condition. The tenants have moved out, so we are at liberty to examine and collect as many as we can find.

Go through the fields this trip, wait until the leaves thin out to look for those in the trees. Be careful where you step. Some of the nests are on the ground. Look sharp or you will not see them.

What seems at first only a matted bunch of dry grass may be the nest of the song sparrow, field sparrow, vesper sparrow, the meadowlark, or bobolink. See how mother Nature teaches the bird to protect its nests by making them almost invisible.

The Stars had an easy time of it at Beloit yesterday and backed up Bick's big time pitching with brilliant fielding. Bevo was touched for but five hits. Two of these came in the fifth and three in the ninth inning. After he had eased up on the big league, after a three weeks' lay-off Bick was inclined to wildness, walking six, but when he did find the plate he went big, retiring 13 Fairies on strikes.

Stevens, the new catcher for the Stars, was signed up for the rest of the season immediately after the game.

Ted Hager, at second, and Josie Prox, in the field, carried off hitting honors for the day, each getting three safe ones, two of them doubles by Prox and one a two-bagger by Hager. Wall scored in the first inning and in the fifth five more runs were driven across, two doubles, a brace of singles and two muffs being responsible.

The Stars had one of their best breaking a 17-victory record for Beloit. The Stars may meet a Footville aggregation next Sunday. The box scores of the two games:

STARS SPLIT EVEN ON DOUBLE BILL; SIGN NEW CATCHER

The All-Stars split even on a big week-end bill, losing to Orfordville 6-5, in a 10-frame fray Saturday, and defeating the Junior Fairy Apprentices, 14 to 6, at Beloit yesterday.

Hager performed on the mound against the villagers, while Bick did the heavy work at the Gateway City yesterday.

The game at Orfordville was by far the more exciting of the two, the game being a pitcher's duel between Hager and Hesgard up until the fifth, when the village clan, with two hits, aided by Fuelleman's boot, pushed across runs. The Stars drew first blood, Wall scoring on Prox's sacrifice after he had singled and stolen two sacks. Wall repeated his performance in the sixth, while Bick brought in the third run in the next stanza, going the circuit on two errors and a passed ball. Marko scored later in the inning on a wild pitch, giving the Stars a one-run lead, 4-3.

The Orfordvites tied the count in the eighth, Hesgard scoring on his single and Fuelleman's boot. With the score standing 4-4, the ninth inning passed quietly and all the ninth inning passed quietly and all the ninth inning passed quietly.

The city tribe succeeded in pushing one more across when Zahn walked. Zahn in left field got a hard bound and Thomlin scored, winning the game for Orfordville.

Hager was effective in the pinches and men via the route. The Stars gathered six hits off Hesgard.

GAMES TODAY
 Janesville at Sheboygan.
 Kosciusko at Manitowoc.
 McCoy Stars at Waupun, two games.

Larry Zwilka, in the best of form yesterday, pitched Waupun to a 9 to 0 victory over the Janesville team in a five game at the Prison City, showing the sliding home team from fourth to first place in the Lake Shore league. The Koskys sprang the surprise of the day defeating Sheboygan, 12 to 5, while the league leaders, Manitowoc, with Dick Crutcher pitching shut out the McCoy All-Stars, 2 to 0.

The Janes seemed hopeless before Zwilka's offerings getting but five hits in the seven innings in which he pitched, getting one more off Stacks who relieved him in the eighth. Hummelstein, the Janes beloved umpire, officiated much to their disgust.

The blame for the defeat is hung on Pierce, who made three errors, although other members of the team contributed to the poor support accorded Lenquist, who was ranked in the sixth in favor of Rube Eldred. The Prison clan scored six runs in one big inning, the Janes playing good ball outside the one explosion.

Pete Brannen, at third, and Keith, the new centerfielder, were the hitting stars for the Janes, each connecting with two safe ones, while Pierce and Aaron, the new second sacker gathered the other two bingles. The rest of the team were unable to follow Zwilka's smoke. Kleinheinz, who played with the Janes early in the season, played centerfield for Waupun and figured in a double play.

That Janes, who Hank Schmidt pitching, are hopeful of downing the Chairs at Sheboygan this afternoon. The score of the game will be received at the Gazette and posted at 5:30 this afternoon.

MANTOWOC 2, ALLSTARS 0.
 MANTOWOC, Wis.—With Dick Crutcher, outfielder, Boston Braves pitcher, in the line, the Mantowoc league champs easily defeated the McCoy Allstars here on Sunday by the score of 2 to 0.

Crutcher allowed the Milwaukee visitors only two hits. Hank Schmidt was on the slab for McCoy and also hurled a good game, but the former major leaguer had the edge on him and Manitowoc won. A good crowd witnessed the game at the Grove street park. In fact the game was one safe hit after another. Logan and Stock of the Koskys being bled safely fifteen times. The Peles, however, made up for it by pounding Buster Braun of the Chairs for the same amount.

Dunbar, the Chairs husky rightfielder, livened up proceedings by polling out a four bugger.

SAMSON TRACTORS GETS 21 HITS AND BEAT PENMEN, 20-3

Rube Eldred obtained vengeance against the Parker Pen club for the Samson tractor nine—stung by their defeat of a week ago—by grabbing a 20 to 3 victory over the league champions in a riot of run making at the Samson field Saturday afternoon. The two clubs now are "fifty-fifty" in the series and arrangements are to be made for the deciding game early this week.

In justice to the Parker team it can be said with truth, the Samson had a nine Saturday which was as strong as has been trotted out on a local diamond in recent years.

Hammer the Ball.
 Pierce, who mastered the tractor makers in the first game, was the victim of the slugging outfit. The Samson wracking crew had a bat-bag full of heavy artillery for a grand total of 21 hits. They had five players who could send the ball ariding hard and true every time they stepped up to the rubber, and Pierce seemed to have nothing that worried or puzzled these sticklers. They stepped up to the plate and banged anything that came up, and generally went safe for the Parker defense was none too steady.

Crack Infield.
 Matched up with the hitting Samsons had an infield that was a beauty. The combination of Conroy, Miller, Fox and Braussen was sufficient to take the heart out of most any team. Not a boot did they make and their speed is evidenced by three double killings. Fox at short was the pivot for the double plays. One has but to see him field a fast one, watch him come up and trapping the ball and make a "whiz-bang" pop to first without setting himself, to know he has been in "big time" and played faster ball than is general in this section.

Eldred pitched steady ball until the game was hopelessly lost for the Parkers. He fanned seven and allowed eight hits. Tommy Croake, catching, worked him over, and the battery work was one worth watching.

Both Get Triples.
 In the first inning Pierce hit Croake and then Fox stepped into a straight ball for a triple. The Parkers did the same thing in their half, for Koskuske tripped and scored when Koskuske slipped in the soft loam of the outfield and missed Hill's liner. This ended the Parker scoring until the eighth, for the brilliant fielding and steady heaving by Eldred kept them off the sacks. In the fourth the Parkers became dangerous with three hits, but Fox by running over back of second and making a one-hand stop killed the attempt to score.

The Samsons had five runs when the fifth inning came around. They had been lawless on the bases, running wild. The fifth broke the Parkers' heart. Between seven hits, a walk and a sacrifice fly, the Samsons pounded over eight runs. Biglow, the big center fielder, got two hits in the same inning. The neat single by Miller with two on was one of the big skids in this run-making inning. Conroy knocked out a triple in the sixth. Sullivan singled and a long sacrifice fly by Miller scored Sullivan. Croake settled things for his hitting record in the seventh when he tripled and was sent home by Biglow.

Play at Plate.
 St. John singled in the eighth and scored when Bond finally connected. Clatworthy tripled in the ninth, scoring Hill, who had rapped out a single. Clatworthy tried to sneak home, but a stop by Braussen and a fast throw nipped him at the plate for the last out. There were about 400 at the game. However after the bloody fifth there was not much cause for rooting. As usual the umpire came in for several disputes, but the game was too much one-sided to work up much heat.

HERE AND THERE.
 Peter Brannen in the eighth showed a classic hook slide. He was caught off by a good foot, and in coming home looked to be a soft out. Taking a flying leap he sneaked around Clatworthy, who missed touch him by such a margin there was no question even on the part of the ump and Bond—who for once, kept his mouth shut.

The Parker fielders had a hard day in the outer garden. Everything seemed to be coming their way. Croake had a varied day at bat. He was hit twice, got a sacrifice, two hits and went safe on a fielder's choice.

2:14 TROT THURSDAY SHOULD BE THRILLER

The 2:14 trot at the Dane county fair at Madison last Thursday was the closest contest of the entire week's program and proved to be a thriller to the 15,000 people who watched it. While there were other starters, the race was really between Viney Bingen, owned by G. H. Steinlein, Milwaukee, and which has been racing through the Grand circuit and Armita, owned by Dr. H. H. Capron, Jr. Five outs were made in from 2:09 1/4 to 2:14 1/4.

Armita was favored at the 2:14 trot and he did not disappoint. He won the race in 2:14 1/4, beating Viney Bingen by a head. The race was a real thriller and the crowd was on its feet all the time.

"That's good," he said wanly, and he had a moment of physical dizziness that decided him to sit down quickly. For an instant it seemed to him that he was not Fanny's nephew, but married to her. He passed his pale hand over his pale forehead. "Well, let's see where we stand," he said feebly. "Let's see if we can afford this place you've selected."

Fanny continued to brighten. "I'm sure it's the most practical plan we could possibly have worked out. George—and it is a comfort to be among nice people. I think we'll both enjoy it. Because the truth is we've been keeping too much to ourselves for a long while. It isn't good for people."

"I was thinking about the money, Aunt Fanny. The rent is thirty-six dollars a month; the dinner is twenty-two and a half for each of us, and we've got to have some provision for other food. We won't need any clothes for a year, perhaps—"

"Oh, longer!" she exclaimed. "So you see—"

"I see that forty-five and thirty-six make eighty-one," he said. "At the lowest, we need a hundred dollars a month—and I'm going to make thirty-two."

"I thought of that, George," she said confidently. "And I'm sure it will be all right. You'll be earning a great deal more than that very soon."

"I don't see any prospect of it—not till I'm admitted to the bar, and that will be two years at the earliest."

"Well, there's the six hundred dollars from the sale. Six hundred and twelve dollars it was."

"It isn't six hundred and twelve now," said George. "It's about one hundred and sixty."

Fanny showed a momentary dismay. "Why, how—"

"I lent Uncle George two hundred; I gave fifty apiece to old Sam and those two other old duffers that worked for grandfather so long, and tea to each of the servants here—"

"And you gave me thirty-six," she said thoughtfully. "For the first month's rent, in advance?"

"Did I? I'd forgotten. Well, with about a hundred and sixty in bank and our expenses a hundred a month, it doesn't seem as if this new place—"

"Still," she interrupted. "We have paid the first month's rent in advance, and it does seem to be the most practical—"

George rose. "See here, Aunt Fanny," he said decisively. "You stay here and look after the moving. Old Frank doesn't expect me until afternoon, this last day, but I'll go and see him now."

It was early, and old Frank, just established at his big, flat-topped desk, was surprised when his prospective assistant and pupil walked in. He was pleased, as well as surprised, however, and rose, offering a cordial old hand. "The real fare!" he said. "The real fare for the law. That's right!"

Couldn't wait till afternoon to begin! I'm delighted that you—"

"I wanted to say—," George began, but his patron cut him off.

"Wait just a minute, my boy. I've prepared a little speech of welcome, and even though you're five hours ahead of time, I mean to deliver it. First of all, your grandfather was my old war comrade and my best client; for years I prospered through my connection with his business, and his grandson is welcome in my office and to my best efforts in his behalf. But I want to confess, George, that during your earlier youth I may have had some slight feeling of—well, prejudice, not altogether in your favor; but what-never slight feeling it was, it began to vanish on that afternoon, a good while ago, when you stood up to your Aunt Amelia Amberson as you did in the Major's library, and talked to her as a man and a gentleman should. I saw then what good stuff was in you—and I always wanted to mention it. I think you'll find an honest pleasure now in industry and frugality that wouldn't have come to you in a more frivolous career. The law is a jealous mistress and a stern mistress, but a—"

George had stood before him in great and increasing embarrassment; and he was unable to allow the address to proceed to its conclusion.

"I can't do it," he burst out. "I can't take her for my mistress."

"What?"

"I've come to tell you, I've got to find something that's quicker. I can't—"

Old Frank got a little red. "Let's sit down," he said. "What's the trouble?"

George told him.

The old gentleman listened sympathetically, only murmuring: "Well, well!" from time to time, and nodding acquiescence.

"You see she's set her mind on this apartment," George explained. "She's got some old cronies there, and I guess she's been looking forward to the games of bridge and the kind of harmless gossip that goes on in such places. Really, it's a life she'd like better than anything else—better than that she's lived at home, I really believe. It struck me she's just about got to have it, and after all she could hardly have anything less."

"This comes pretty heavily upon me, you know," said old Frank. "I got her into that headlight company, and she fooled me about her resources as much as she did your Uncle George. I was never your father's adviser, if you remember, and when the insurance was turned over to her some other lawyer arranged it—probably your father's. But it comes pretty heavily on me, and I feel a certain responsibility."

"Not at all, I'm taking the responsibility," And George smiled with one corner of his mouth. "I'll tell you how it is, sir. He fished, and looking out of the streaked and smoky window beside which he was sitting, spoke with difficulty. "I feel as if—perhaps I had one or two pretty important things in my life to make up for. Well, I can't. I can't make them up to—" whom I would. It's struck me that, as I couldn't, I might be a little decent to somebody else, perhaps—I could manage it! I never have been particularly decent to poor old Aunt Fanny."

"Oh, I don't know. I shouldn't say that. A little youthful teasing—I doubt if she's minded so much. It seems to me she's had a fairly comfortable life—up to now—if she was disposed to take it that way."

"But 'up to now' is the important thing," George said. "Now is now—and you see I can't wait two years to be admitted to the bar and begin to practice. I've got to start in at something else that pays from the start, and that's what I've come to you about. I have an idea, you see."

"Well, I'm glad of that!" said old Frank, smiling. "I can't think of anything just at this minute that pays from the start."

"I only know of one thing, myself."

"What is it?"

George finished again, but managed to laugh at his own embarrassment. "I suppose I'm about as ignorant of business as anybody in the world," he said. "But I've heard they pay very high wages to people in dangerous trades; I've always heard they did, and I'm sure it must be true. I mean people that handle touchy chemicals or high explosives—men in dynamite factories, or who take things of that sort about the country in wagons, and shoot oil wells. I thought I'd see if you couldn't tell me something more about it, or else introduce me to some one who could, and then I thought I'd see if I couldn't get something of the kind to do as soon as possible. I wanted to get started today if I could."

Old Frank gave him a long stare. At first this scrutiny was purely incred-

Old Frank gave him a long stare. At first this scrutiny was purely incredulous; then it was grave; finally it developed into a threat of overwhelming laughter; a forked vein in his forehead became more visible and his eyes seemed about to protrude.

But he controlled his impulse; and, rising, took up his hat and overcoat. "All right," he said. "If you'll promise not to get blown up, I'll go with you to see if we can find the job."

Then, meaning what he said, but amazed that he did mean it, he added: "You certainly are the most practical young man I ever met!"

MAGNOLIA

(By Gazette Correspondent.)
Magnolia, Aug. 29.—Rev. W. G. Bird and family and Mrs. Lear returned home Thursday from Aurora, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Andrew returned home Friday after spending a week with their son, George and family of Harvard, Ill.

The Misses Helen and Harriett Clark entertained at a house party a part of this week, having as their guests the Misses Marion and Helen Harper, Spring Valley; Marjorie Van Skike, Brodhead; and Mabel and Mildred Boyd of Milton avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Harper and son entertained at supper Thursday night. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Edwards and three daughters of Evansville and Mrs. Effie Woodward and Mrs. Wilson of Pontiatto, Colo.

The regular weekly prayer meeting will be held at the church Wednesday evening. Will Casey was a Brodhead caller Friday.

Bennett brothers expect to finish up the threshing in this locality today. Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Harper and son entertained at dinner Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Clark and daughters of Canville; the Misses Mildred and Mahel Boyd, Milton avenue; Helen and Marion Harper, Spring Valley; and Marjorie Van Skike, Brodhead.

Dinner Stories

"Did I understand you to say that the lad voluntarily confessed to playing truant?" asked a school officer, addressing the mother of a small and dirty boy.

"Yes, sir, he did," the woman responded. "I just had to persuade him a little, and then he told me the whole thing voluntarily."

"How did you persuade him?" inquired the officer.

"Well, first I gave him a good hiding," said the parent, "and then I put him to bed without supper, and I took his clothes away and told him he'd stay in bed till he confessed what he'd done. It was the rest of his days, and then I should punish him again in the morning. And in less than half an hour he told me the whole story of his own accord."

The following incident related with a flavor of Gallic irony by the Cri de Paris is said to have taken place at Toulouse:

On election day a young man went to a booth to vote.

"But, monsieur," said one of the overseers, "you have already voted."

"I allons donc! I am certain I have not."

A search being made of the records it was discovered that there had been an error in the recording of the Christian name. It was not Marius Tartarin that had voted, but Gonzague Tartarin.

"Gonzague!" cried the young man, "you are quite sure that he has voted?"

"Yes, indeed. Look, here is the register."

"Ah, how I regret not having been here," said the man. "I would have embraced him with such pleasure. He is my father."

"Yes, and I have not seen him since he died four years ago."

SHARON

What Is Rheumatism?

Why Suffer from It?

Sufferers Should Realize That It Is a Blood Infection.

Doubtless like other sufferers, you have often asked yourself this question, which continues to remain unanswered.

Science has proven that Rheumatism is caused by a germ in your blood, and the only way to reach it is by a remedy which eliminates and removes these little pain demons.

S. S. S. has been successfully used for Rheumatism for more than fifty years and many voluntary testimonials are on file from those whom it has benefited. Try it to-day, and you will find yourself at last on the right track to get rid of your Rheumatism. WAR INCREASED FISH. London.—The Scarborough fish market is glutted with fish as a result of big catches being made by fishermen plying from that port. The fishermen declare that they never saw so many fish as are now being caught in the North sea and attribute the bountiful supply to the fact that fish increased rapidly during the war when there was little fishing on account of German U-boats.

Plenty of Music

The fair grounds today was virtually a city in itself. Scores of tents were being erected and hammers cracked in all sections of the park. Exhibits were arriving every few minutes. All last evening and today heavy trucks loaded down with all kinds of livestock and other exhibits piled to and from the fair grounds while scores of sleek race horses were taken to their stalls to await the opening heats of the greatest program of races which has ever been attempted here. With 170 entries in the races and purses totaling $7,500 competition will be intense among the cream of the racing stock of the middle west which will be on hand in Janesville.
Lieut. Ralph C. Diggins, daring young aviator, who performs every stunt known to aviation, is due to arrive with his plane tomorrow to remain throughout the four days, giving flights daily and carrying passengers. Other free attractions are said by officials to be among the best obtainable.
